TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Preston University is licensed pursuant to Wyoming Statute, rules and regulations. Presently, the state of Wyoming has only three universities with on-campus programs offering undergraduate and graduate degrees. They are the University of Wyoming in Laramie, Senior University in Evanston, and Preston University in Cheyenne. The University of Wyoming is a state university while Preston and Senior Universities are private. Preston University is licensed in Wyoming as a degree-granting institution.

The state of Wyoming, in an effort to protect the integrity of private degree-granting institutions, passed legislation in 1996 that set forth both qualitative and quantitative guidelines for licensure. As a private university, Preston is required to fully comply with our Wyoming statutes (specifically, Enrolled Act No. 45, Session, signed by the Governor on March 20, 1996) which sets forth the following: The act relates to private school licensing; mandating licensing of private schools and agents as specified; requiring on-site inspection and visitation of post secondary education facilities by the state department of education; imposing license application requirements, reporting requirements and modifying license provisions for post secondary education institutions; modifying license fees as specified; providing for license suspension and revocation; prohibiting specified practices; modifying licensing provisions; granting rulemaking authority and imposing additional duties; and providing for an effective date. The Department of Education monitors private universities to insure compliance with our laws, rules and regulations.

A qualification makes your CV look better and it would get you a meeting but during a negotiation for a higher position or a business deal, your success depends a lot on your applied abilities not your academic output. You will be noticed in the crowd and you shall gain much from the new recognition accorded to you.

You will be ever ready for any corporate event. Your English would have improved, your presentation skills sharpened, having no fear at all in front of crowds where you can transmit your points appropriately and accurately. You will move impressively amongst corporate circles. Job offers will pour in and you will have the luxury of choice. If you are an entrepreneur, you will be able to see a vast improvement in your ability to make smart business moves.

When you study together with your fellow mates under the effective guidance of the top class facilitators, the networking opportunities knows no bound. Great ideas are shared and everyone helps each other to cross the finish line together. When you stand together donning the graduation gown, you know you have made it with flying colors.

You can earn between RM5,000 and RM10,000 monthly quite easily if you spend some of your weekends fruitfully. The beauty of this part-time profession is that you shall get better and better each time you teach or consult. With the extra income, you can live life more luxuriously.
